Applicants respectfully traverse the several obviousness rejections for the reasons explained below.

Independent claim 1 recites “a multimedia server provided within an aircraft.” Independent claim 27 recites “providing a multimedia server within an aircraft of an airline.”

Independent claim 54 recites “means for providing a multimedia server within an aircraft of an airline.” Independent claim 55 recites “accessing a multimedia server over a communications network within an aircraft.”

The decision of September 10, 2008 by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences recognized that Galipeau et al. failed to disclose “selecting, pre-flight, one of the options for purchase of a corresponding one of a plurality of multimedia via a web server coupled to the multimedia server.” That is, the Board panel recognized that the claimed subject matter distinguished over Galipeau et al. in the requirement that a paying passenger, and not an agent of the airline, is the individual doing the “selecting.”

The Examiner has now applied Ekkel et al. for the alleged teaching of an individual selecting and purchasing multimedia prior to boarding a flight, and for a teaching of downloading multimedia from a web server to the multimedia server.

Applicant does not necessarily dispute that Ekkel et al. teaches a selection and purchase of information content prior to boarding a flight, wherein that information content is downloaded from a repository to a storage device for later viewing. However, this information is downloaded from a server external of the aircraft. The downloaded information content is then stored on a storage device, such as a DVD, and later accessed on the aircraft via a device provided at an assigned location within the aircraft. This is in contrast to the instant claimed subject matter wherein the multimedia server is “provided within an aircraft.” Taking claim 1, as exemplary, the multimedia that is selected prior to the flight is purchased “via a web server coupled to the multimedia server” and that multimedia server is “within the aircraft.” The web server from which the multimedia is purchased in Ekkel et al. is not coupled to a multimedia server located within the aircraft.

Contrary to the Examiner's assertion, Ekkel et al. does not teach "the multimedia being selected, pre-flight, for purchase via a web server coupled to the multimedia server," a feature both the Examiner and the Board panel recognized as missing from Galipeau et al.

Since an important claim feature is lacking in the disclosure of each of the applied references, no prima facie case of obviousness has been established with regard to claims 1-5, 7, 8, 11, 13-15, 27-31, 33, 34, 37, 39-41, and 54-56 within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. § 103.

Further, since none of the secondary references to Humpleman, Schwab, Ahmad, Rosin et al., McCarten et al., Volpe et al., Neel et al., or Dedrick provides for this deficiency of "the multimedia being selected, pre-flight, for purchase via a web server coupled to the multimedia server," there also has been no prima facie case of obviousness established with regard to dependent claims 6, 9, 10, 12, 16-26, 32, 35, 36, 38, and 42-52.

Therefore, the present application, as amended, overcomes the rejections of record and is in condition for allowance. Favorable consideration is respectfully requested. If any unresolved issues remain, it is respectfully requested that the Examiner telephone the undersigned attorney at (310) 964-0560 so that such issues may be resolved as expeditiously as possible.

To the extent necessary, a petition for an extension of time under 37 C.F.R. §1.136 is hereby made.
